CHAIRS REPORT

Firstly, I would like to wish everyone belated happy new year, and welcome to this first publication of WEst for 2024. I am delighted to be provided the opportunity to take up the position of Chairman for the Business Association. I would like to thank the outgoing chairperson, Kelvin Armstrong for the huge contribution that he has made during his tenure as chair, and I am truly delighted that Kelvin has agreed to stay on and maintain a position on the board.

A little bit of time off over the Christmas and New Year period provided me with an opportunity to step back and reflect on what the association can be doing to drive value for the businesses that we represent. Most obviously this will be to continue to progress the critical projects, notably the CCTV project which is progressing well. I look forward to providing more positive news and updates in upcoming editions.

But it doesn't stop there. I did not have to look much further than the revelation that surfaced in December indicating that councillors had voted in favour of a further reduction in the number of local boards; likely resulting in a 30% drop in the number of local boards at the next local body elections.

Whilst it could be contended that as things stand with the amalgamation and formation of the super-city, the effectiveness of representation from the local boards has been at best questionable, the planned further disintegration of the local board framework is almost certainly unlikely to yield any significant improvement; arguable, feeling somewhat like "an exercise in deck chair reorganisation on the Titanic".

I firmly believe - that in addition to overseeing the definition, design and delivery of specific beneficial local projects and initiatives, the association has a larger role, that is to be a proponent and voice of local business; to challenge both the council and central government to prioritise and drive positive outcomes for our community. To scrutinise their plans and decisions to ensure the best use of available funding, and to minimise wastage on programmes that will not contribute to promoting an environment in which businesses within our Business Improvement District (BID) can flourish.

Most importantly as a business operating within the BID, this is your association. To ensure we are truly representing your interests, we welcome your input, ideas, questions, and suggestions.

MICHAEL POWELL, CPHBA BOARD CHAIR

SHOPPING SPREE SUCCESS

Lucky Winners Drawn

In November the Central Park Henderson Business Association held a local Shopping Spree Competition, where shoppers could enter to win 1 of 5 $2,000 shopping sprees in Henderson.

The criteria was simple; spend $25 or more in any business in our area, take a photo of the receipt and upload it, along with name and contact details, to be in the draw to win!

The lucky winners have been chosen and each of our winners are absolutely thrilled to start their $2,000 shopping spree adventure in Henderson... two have already had their shop which was great fun for themselves and our team

Our winners have approx. a 2 hour time slot, to spend their prize in any of the hundreds of retail businesses in our area...there is a limit of $250 to be spent at any one shop - excluding vape & alcohol shops - but apart from that, they have complete freedom as to what they purchase!

Thank you to all the participants who took part in the Shopping Spree competition; and a special thank you to the retailers in Henderson who got behind the promotion, and shared it with their customers, your support was fantastic.

Stay tuned for more from the CPHBA.

PIHA SURF LIFE SAVING CLUB

West Coast Beaches Are Open And Ready For You!

Piha SLSC was formed in 1934 by 4 mates who saw that the local community needed people to keep them safe whilst on the beach. Nearly 90 years on, members of Piha SLSC are still doing the same!

Despite the devastating impact to Piha from the extreme weather events last Summer, it helped galvanise the club further within the local community, becoming a hub for warm meals, discuss support services and a warm, dry place to bunk down for those who had lost their homes.

When cyclone Gabrielle hit, the Piha lifeguards completed welfare checks well into the night throughout the flooded areas; conducting three rescues, one major first aid, and 10 assists for 163 people. The guards showed that lifesaving skills learnt can be used across many different scenarios, and that professionalism is ingrained within their volunteer organisation from a very early age.

'This could be our worst year for drowning this century'

NZ has a higher fatal drowning rate compared to other Western nations such as Australia, Canada and the UK. In 2022 NZ experienced a total of 94 deaths which represents the largest annual drowning loss of life in a decade. Tragically 15% higher than the 10 year average. NZ's Water Safe predictive Modelling Warns: This will be our worst year for drowning this century. Their projections suggest around 30 Kiwis, mostly male, could die over the Summer season through drowning. Most at risk are males 55+ at beaches and on boats and secondly, Asian men rock fishing with an average age 45.

Rock fisherman

There is an increasing concern about the number of fishermen getting into trouble on the rocks around Piha. There have been some outstanding rescues in challenging surf conditions for fisherman, but over recent months, there have had three major callouts involving fishermen coming off the rocks. Piha SLSC after-hours Search and Rescue (SAR) squad have been involved in one successful rescue and the other two ending tragically for all involved.

Safe rock fishing tips

- 1. Be well prepared! Don't fish alone, wear sport shoes - not gumboots.
- 2. Take a cell-phone so you can call 111 if trouble occurs.
- 3. Never fish on a rocky outcrop that is already wet & Never turn your back on the ocean.
- 4. Always keep an eye on the surf for those rogue waves and wear a lifejacket.
- 5. If someone falls in the water, pick up an angel ring or any flotation device you may have, throw it to the person in the water. Call 111 for police, report your location and emergency.
- 6. Send someone to find a lifeguard or help.

Piha SLSC believe engaging and giving back through the act of saving lives is the most honourable and impactful way to contribute to a community. Last season Piha SLSC conducted 33 rescues, four major searches, and contributed 6,181 patrolling hours on their beach.

KEYHOLDERS AND ACCESS

With Our Partners Matrix Security

"With the traditional Christmas holiday period over, it is a good time to reflect on the security trends we have seen and what all businesses can do to help protect themselves".

One notable issue Matrix has observed is the inaccurate details of keyholders and escalation points when your burglar alarm goes off. People come and go, phone numbers change and notifying your security company of these changes is often overlooked.

So why is this important - it is usually the case that instructions are to 'contact the keyholder before despatching a Patrol' and so any delay in contacting someone can increase the response time to site, giving offenders more time to damage or remove property. Higher risk sites typically ask to 'despatch first, then contact keyholders' ensuring that security is on site as soon as possible after an event has occurred.

Another trend Matrix are seeing is 'tailgating'- where offenders follow staff or cleaners onto a site in quick succession thereby negating any access control or alarm systems. It is important to educate staff and contractors (such as cleaners) to ensure they have not been followed onto a site or into a building, and to wait till the door or gate is closed behind them before proceeding. This is especially true of car parks with booms or automatic gates.

Whilst on the subject of access control - building owners/ managers should check that the requirements of the Building Warrant of Fitness (BWF) have been met with regular inspection and testing of any access-controlled doors. All access-controlled doors should be noted on the compliance schedule so that they are tested - any new doors added subsequently also must be added to the schedule.

Different components of access control systems

There are various systems to choose from with the following essential features.

- Access cards. Most systems use access cards that work like electronic keys. Your employee swipes or

PROTECTED BY

MATRIX SECURITY

SECURITY CAMERAS OPERATING 24 HOURS - ALL IMAGES RECORDED

(09) 579 1567

scans the card to enter the building or access different areas internally. They are usually the size of a credit card and are easily carried in a lanyard, wallet or purse. Other options to consider instead of access cards include face recognition, fingerprints or smartphone apps.

- Card readers. These are usually mounted on the exterior of doors and read employees' access cards. Doors are automatically opened to those with permission.
- Access control keypads. Keypads can be used instead of card readers. Employees or visitors simply insert a code to gain entry.

- Electric lock hardware. This hardware locks and unlocks the door electronically, typically using powerful electro-magnets

Access control server computer

All you need to oversee the entire operation is a standard computer. It works as the central database, file manager and monitoring tool for access control.

Matrix Security can assist you with all of the above including IQP testing for BWOFF - please reach out for an obligation free discussion on how they can help you better protect your staff and assets.

Matrix has a median response time of under ten minutes in the CPHBA area
- so any delay in despatching can be material.

WEST CITY AUTO GROUP

Driving Success Out West

West City Auto Group's journey to success has been impressive. The group has operated out of Central Park Drive since 2004 but began trading in 1993 opposite the Corban Winery on Great North Road.

West City also has a Kia and Suzuki facility in Westgate and a large, dedicated service centre in Henderson's Soljan Drive.

Other dealerships have come and gone, but West City Auto Group continues to thrive and is the home of Kia, Suzuki, Mitsubishi, Holden, and now GWM, with the Omoda and Jaecoo brands soon to be added.

A born and bred Westie, Managing Director John Blewett has been involved in the motor industry for over 40 years. Joining Perry Motors in the early 1980s, John learnt his trade under the guidance of Frank Perry before buying Keith Hall Motors in 1993 and setting up on his own.

General Manager and Principal Dealer Jimmy Tailor has a wealth of expert knowledge. There's not much Jimmy doesn't know about the industry. He's been a part of West City Auto for 22 years and oversees the daily operation and 70-strong workforce.

A major turning point for the group was the acquisition of the Holden franchise in 1993. Several attempts to bring the Holden brand to West Auckland had been unsuccessful, and General Motors was hesitant to appoint another dealer to the territory. Acquiring the franchise was a coup at that time. Since then, further brands and new premises have been added to the company's portfolio.

The group has just opened a new GWM facility within the Westgate Mall to enhance its offering to the West further. Furthermore, West City Auto has recently completed a new Kia facility on Central Park Drive and has refurbished the Mitsubishi showroom next door. Modern and spacious, a warm welcome is always on offer. Customers are made to feel special. Indeed, John reports that the company has dealt with several generations in the same family over the years.

However, it's not just good customer service that sets West City Auto apart. The group's vision statement of 'We're part of our community' is demonstrated in the practical support given to many community groups.

Over the last decade, West City Auto has sponsored vehicles for West Auckland Community Patrols. Community patrols are operated by volunteers who support the police in keeping local communities safe.

General Manager & Principal Dealer; Jimmy Tailor, with Managing Director; John Blewett

The South Kaipara Community Patrol covering the Parakai/Helensville area was the most recent recipient of a Mitsubishi 4WD Outlander patrol vehicle.

The group also provides and service vehicles for Fair Food. This food rescue charity distributes surplus food to those in need. And Mercy Waitemata is making good use of its West City Auto donated van to help feed people experiencing homelessness in Henderson.

Jimmy says involvement in the local community has made a big difference to the group's longevity. However, the company is also constantly innovating to meet the changing demands of customers. 'We regularly monitor what's going on in our territory and adapt our offering,' he says.

The addition of new pop-up stores is an excellent example of the group's ability to innovate. One pop-up specialises in GWM's range of cars. Another will open in Henderson opposite the current showrooms in March, offering Omoda and Jaecoo, two Chinese brands new to the NZ market.

Furthermore, West City Auto Group has recently purchased land in Westgate and plans to start work on a major brand-new facility this year. 'We recognise we must keep investing to provide the facilities customers want and expect,' says John.

Increasingly, electric and hybrid vehicles are in demand. And while the government's clean car discount scheme undoubtedly boosted business, it also came with some challenges. Jimmy says that policy announcements were being made without factoring in the long lead-in time for distributors. New vehicles can take 6-12 months to get on the road.

According to John, the future of vehicles is undoubtedly alternative energies. However, he says whether that continues to mean EVs or whether hydrogen-powered vehicles take off remains to be seen.

West City Auto Group's typical customer is a family, says Jimmy. 'Our business is about 70% family and 30% small businesses,' he advises.

And there's certainly a broad range of new and used cars to choose from at every price point. The group sells around 2,500 vehicles every year, so there really is something for everyone.

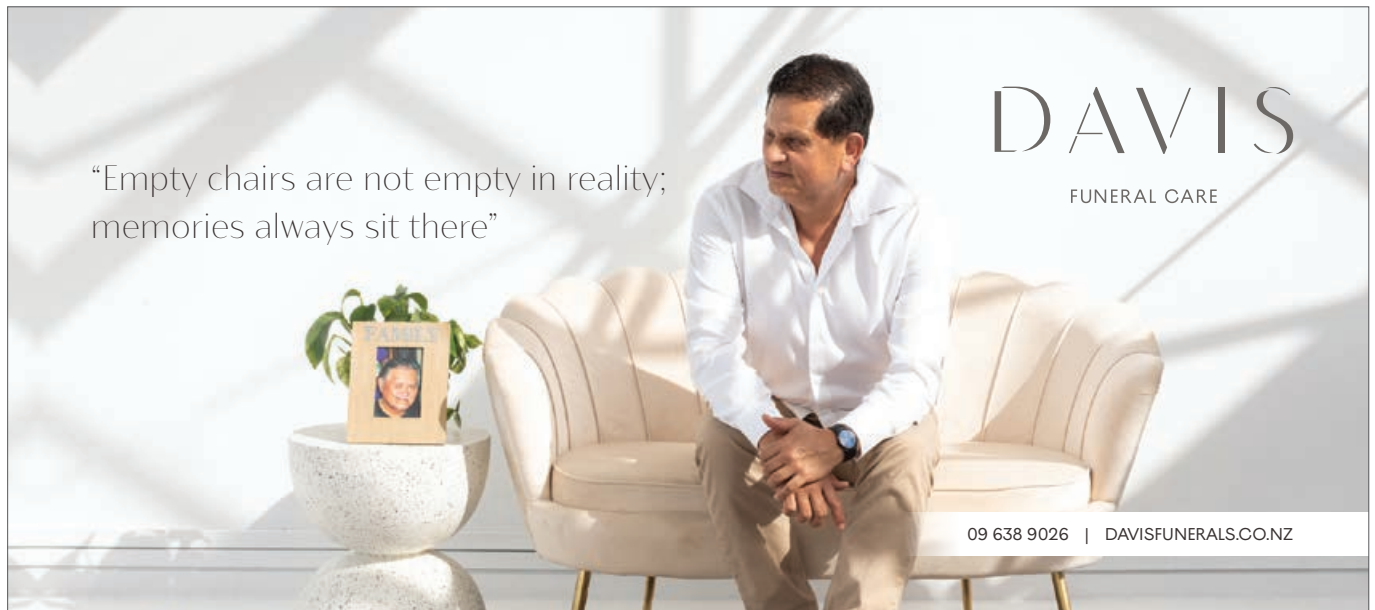

The fully electric Kia EV9 featured on our front cover offers the ultimate driving experience. With its advanced driver-assistance features, digital side mirrors and massaging driver seat, it's a vehicle worthy of James Bond.

Another premium choice is the Mitsubishi Outlander Phev Sport featured opposite. This plug-in hybrid is stylish and powerful, going from 0 to 100 in just seven seconds.

Work and family life keep both John and Jimmy super-busy. However, as die-hard car enthusiasts, it's no surprise that both are massive motorsports fans. The group also sponsors the safety cars at the Hampton Downs and Taupo racetracks.

West City Auto Group is a fantastic homegrown success story. A 30-year history of servicing the motoring needs of West and Northwest Auckland says it all. So, if you're looking for a new car, why not get your search underway right here at West City Auto Group.

MARKET RESEARCH

Why Does It Matter

Imagine sailing a ship without a compass; that's essentially running a business without market research. It's the process of gathering, analysing, and interpreting information about your target market, competitors, and industry trends.

Why does it matter so much? Because the business landscape is constantly shifting. What your customers wanted last year might not be the same this year. Regular market research helps you stay aligned with your customers' evolving needs, preferences, and behaviours. It's not just about keeping up; it's about finding new opportunities to adapt and grow your business.

How often should market research be conducted?

The answer varies depending on your industry and the speed at which your market evolves. For fast-paced sectors like technology or fashion, where trends change rapidly, conducting research quarterly or even monthly is beneficial. For more stable industries, like basic consumer goods or traditional services, a semi-annual or annual approach might suffice.

However, the key is consistency and being reactive to market shifts. Regular market research allows you to pivot quickly, adapting to new trends or consumer needs before your competitors do.

3 Cost-Effective Market Research Methods

- 1. Surveys and Questionnaires: Powerful tools to get direct insights from your customers. Use free online tools like Google Forms to create surveys. Ask about their needs and preferences. Share these surveys through various channels like email or social media.
- 2. Social Media Monitoring: An open forum where customers voice their opinions. Use basic plans of tools like Hootsuite to gather information about customer sentiments and trends.
- 3. Competitor Analysis: Understand what your competitors are doing by visiting their websites and following them on social media. Identify their strengths and weaknesses to find your opportunities.

Market research isn't a one-off task; It's an ongoing process that keeps your business aligned with the ever-changing market landscape. By regularly engaging in cost-effective market research, you can make informed decisions, adapt to your customers' changing needs, and ultimately, stay ahead in the game. Remember, knowledge is power, especially in the dynamic world of small business.

WISDOM TEETH

Debunking Some Common Myths

Not everything you read or see about wisdom teeth and getting them removed is true. So here we debunk some of the common myths about these troublesome teeth.

Wisdom teeth are the third and last molars on each side of both jaws. They are the last permanent teeth to come in and this usually happens when you are older and 'wiser'!

The average age that people get their wisdom teeth is between 17 and 25 years old. Obviously though everyone is different and they can come through earlier or later - even as late as in your 40's. And it's not necessarily a given that you will get four wisdom teeth either, as some people have less, none or occasionally even more.

Everyone is different and therefore not everyone has to have their wisdom teeth removed. The problem with wisdom teeth is that they are the teeth most likely to be stuck, or impacted, because of a lack of space for them to come through. This means they can cause overcrowding and misalignment, damage the molar next to them or create a pocket for bacteria.

These are all good reasons to have them removed to protect the health of the rest of your teeth and keep your smile straight. However, some lucky people do have enough space for their wisdom teeth to come through without causing any issues and therefore there is no cause to remove them.

The method of removing a wisdom tooth depends on your circumstances. Sometimes a fully or partially erupted tooth can be removed via a simple extraction which is quicker, easier and less invasive. But in other cases oral surgery may be necessary. In all cases local anaesthetic is applied to effectively numb the gum to ensure you are totally pain-free.

Dental sedation may also be an option to keep you calm and comfortable, especially if you suffer from dental anxiety. You are likely to need over-the-counter painkillers for a day or two to stay comfortable.

Unfortunately, people who have wisdom teeth emerging and aligning without any problems are the minority. In the majority of cases these molars come in crooked and/or don't break fully through the gum. Overcrowding and misalignment can lead to a crooked smile as well as leave you more prone to tooth decay because misaligned teeth are harder to keep clean (because of food traps and hard-to-reach bacteria pockets).

Partially erupted teeth can lead to bacterial infections or even cysts which can damage bone and gum tissue. Often there is also pain or tenderness, swelling and sometimes an unpleasant taste in your mouth.

CHOLESTEROL - HIGH (aka Hyperlipidemia) What Is It?

Cholesterol is a type of fat in your blood. Most cholesterol is made by your body, but eating fatty foods can lead to high cholesterol levels. It is when there's too much bad cholesterol (LDL) and/or not enough good cholesterol (HDL) in your blood.

High Cholesterol can have different causes in different people. Some of these causes can be changed and some of them cannot. Even if the underlying cause cannot be changed, you can still improve your health by taking steps to lower your cholesterol (see below).

Causes for high cholesterol which can be changed include: Eating too much refined sugar and unhealthy fats - Alcohol - Not being physically active - Or being overweight.

Causes for high cholesterol which cannot be changed include: Your age - Your genes (family history) - Some medical conditions

Why is it important that you control your cholesterol?

Uncontrolled cholesterol increases your risk of having a heart attack or stroke. Sometimes when your arteries clog up with the fatty cholesterol, you will head down the road of high risk heart attacks or strokes.

High cholesterol usually does not have symptoms. The only way to find out if your cholesterol is high, is to have a blood test called lipid profile. This measures the amount of cholesterol and triglycerides in your blood.

How can you treat high cholesterol?

Your doctor will assess your risk of heart attack or stroke based on your lipid profile results and other risk factors such as age, sex, blood pressure, smoking and diabetes.

Your doctor may give you medication such as statins to lower cholesterol and reduce risk of having a heart attack or stroke.

What are some ways that can help you lower your cholesterol?

You may be able to reduce your cholesterol by making changes to your lifestyle such as:

- Eating healthy foods, including lots of fruit and vegetables, low or reduced fat milk, lean meat, nuts & seeds, and healthy fats
- Exercising regularly - being active for least 30minutes a day most days of the week
- Staying a healthy weight
- Avoiding takeaways and deep fried foods, cakes, biscuits, pastries and chips
- Reducing red meat, cheese and butter
- Not drinking too much alcohol

Talk to your healthcare provider now if you have any concerns and make some changes to your lifestyle to help lower your cholesterol, you may need to take medicine for this.

THE GLORIOSA

NZ's Flamboyant Flower with Davis Funerals

In the lush landscapes of New Zealand, amidst the vibrant flora, the Gloriosa, known colloquially as the flame lily or cat's claw, stands out as a botanical marvel.

The Gloriosa is native to tropical and subtropical regions of Africa and Asia, where it thrives in warm, humid climates. Its distinctive appearance has earned it the nickname 'flame lily' - due to its fiery red and orange petals that unfurl in a dramatic display reminiscent of a flickering flame. Six quirky little stamens with prominent anthers jut out from the blossoms like a set of tiny limbs. The plant's botanical name, Gloriosa, is derived from the Latin word 'gloriosus', meaning glorious, a fitting descriptor for its stunning blooms.

In New Zealand, where the Gloriosa has found a second home, its vibrant presence adds a touch of tropical elegance to gardens and landscapes. The North Island, in particular, provides an ideal climate for these beautiful flowers to flourish.

One of the most fascinating features of the Gloriosa is its unique method of climbing and clinging, earning it the nickname 'Cat's claw or Tiger's claw'. The plant employs specialized tendrils at the ends of its leaves, which coil and grasp onto surrounding vegetation for support.

"In joy or sadness, flowers are our constant friends"
– Okakura Kakuzo

FUNERAL CARE

Beyond its aesthetic appeal, the Gloriosa holds historical significance, intertwined with tales of exploration and trade. European explorers and traders first encountered this enchanting flower during their journeys to Africa and Asia in the 15th and 16th centuries. The discovery of the Gloriosa sparked a fascination among botanists and horticulturists, leading to its introduction to various parts of the world, including New Zealand.

For those seeking to bring a touch of the exotic into their New Zealand gardens, cultivating the Gloriosa can be a rewarding endeavour. These flowers thrive in well-draining soil with ample sunlight, and their tuberous roots require a delicate touch during planting. Gardeners across the country have embraced the challenge of nurturing these vibrant blooms, adding a splash of tropical allure to their landscapes.

While the Gloriosa's allure is undeniable, it conceals a fascinating secret - its toxicity. The plant contains colchicine, a compound that can be toxic if ingested. This unique characteristic serves as a natural defence mechanism against herbivores. In traditional medicine, however, certain cultures have harnessed the plant's properties for medicinal purposes, albeit with caution and careful preparation.

In conclusion, the Gloriosa, with its captivating beauty, historical allure, and botanical intrigue, has firmly established itself as a noteworthy resident in New Zealand's rich array of flora. This flame lily is a testament to the marvels of the natural world we are so blessed to live in.

Drawing inspiration from Hans Christian Andersen's wisdom: "Just living is not enough... one must have sunshine, freedom, and a little flower" perhaps the exquisite Gloriosa could be your petite bloom of joy this season.

MEMBERS CAR

The 1964 Ford Cortina Mk1

In 1962, the first model came off production in the UK at Ford's Dagenham plant. Launched in September 1962, the car was targeted at the family market and was featured in the October London Motor Show in 1962. The Mark I was originally available as a 1.2L or 1.5L 4-cylinder engine; as either a 2 or 4 door saloon; or a 4 door estate. The base model was sold at a price of just £639 (approx. $1,300NZ).

Ford Cortina's were produced between 1962 and 1982 (NZ-1983); as the Mk1, Mk11, Mk111, Mk1V & finally the MkV versions, it remains the third most popular car ever sold in Britain. Many of us fondly remember owning one as a first or second car, and watching them on the race-track.

Antony from Carlton Party Hire in Central Park enjoys his classic Cortina which is now 60 year old, and being a four-door saloon 1.2L 'pre-facelift model' is becoming quite rare these days. The vehicle is complete with the original 'Consul Cortina' Shop Manual, together with an owners workshop manual.

Jeremy Clarkson owns/ed a Ford Cortina; it was the car his parents drove and it was also his first car. "Always Ford Cortinas," says Clarkson. "That's why I bought a Ford Cortina, I didn't know there were other cars."

MANAGER'S MESSAGE

Welcome to 2024 and we hope this year to be the one that beats all others.

First of all, a big thank you to all north west stores who joined us in the Christmas Store decorating competition, we had a good number of entries. By joining in the fun we create a space attractive for people to come and complete their Christmas shopping, while offering two businesses a small Christmas gift of $1,500 each.

Two winners were chosen across all entrants in our rural villages, with Chanelle Jade Hair Salon in Helensville and Zubu Women's Boutique in Kumeu both taking home a $1,500 cash prize each. The business association hopes to make this an annual competition that will help put North West Country on the map and allow Christmas shoppers some fun as they shop locally.

Chanelle and Teresa were both over the moon with the prize winnings, with both business owners excited to receive funds that they could immediately invest into their business. "It has been such a hard year," said Teresa Nobilo-Healey, "it is nice to have this competition to close the year and this means so much to us." Chanelle and the team were excited to hear the news. "It took a while to sink in," said owner Chanelle Haywood, "but we couldn't be happier. We put a lot of effort into the window display.

This is wonderful."

2024 is the year that everyone is looking forward to, and we hope to make it a top year for our business members. Starting the year off is the Ultimate Day Out competition. The competition is open in January and February, with the prize draw in March at the Kumeu Show. Simply spend $50 or more at any North West Country member's business in this time, save your receipt, and drop your entry in the box at the North West Country stall at the Helensville or Kumeu shows. The winner will win an ultimate day out for two in Adventure Country. For competition and entry details and to find out who our members are, head to our website at www.northwestcountry.co.nz/ultimatedayout/.

Another benefit we are offering to our members is to join us at the Helensville and Kumeu Shows. We will be on site with a large marquee and make an open offer to members to have a stall within our marquee for free. We will man the stall for you and make sales, and you get the proceeds. All you have to do is set your goods up at the beginning of the shows and take them back at the end and leave the rest to us.

To book your spot at either show, reach out now at manager@northwestcountry.co.nz.

TOOLS FOR BEING A TRADIE AND RUNNING A SUCCESSFUL BUSINESS

There are so many great tradies out there who do great work, but often struggle to build a great business at the same time. While tradies may well have gone through significant training and qualifications to learn their trade, seldom does this learning include how to run a business.

That is the challenge that led Andy Burrows to establish The Trades Coach, a trades-specific business training and coaching business in 2011. A business dedicated to helping the owners of construction related trades to better balance the effort and risks put in, with the rewards they take out.

Since then, The Trades Coach has helped hundreds of owners with advice and support on how to grow their businesses sustainably and profitably. The Trades Coach programmes range from a low cost, online training platform for those new to business ownership, to a fully customisable 1:1 coaching solution that covers multiple areas of business strategy and development. Participants can choose from various modules that comprise the programme content and cover such areas as:

- Planning and goal setting
- Business strategy
- Marketing and lead generation
- Sales process and contracts
- Team development and management
- Operational improvement and systemization
- Financial management, pricing and cash-flow

All programme versions have been registered with the Regional Business Partners programme (part of MBIE) and are eligible for up to 50% co-funding for approved business owners.

As part of the evaluation phase The Trades Coach offers a free, no-obligation strategy session. We look at where your business is now, what areas can do with some improvement, some ideas to implement and if we are the right fit. More details about how to register can be found here:

www.tradescoach.co.nz/strategy-session-2/

Does it work? Yes it does and as long as you do your bit around providing the necessary information and implement the agreed strategies, we guarantee it. Read about some client success stories here: www.tradescoach.co.nz/garys-story/
